

Ept

ept is a German-based connector manufacturer with subsidiaries in various countries. ept develops and manufactures connectors as well as tools and machinery for connector processing. Major business areas are telecommunications, automotive- and industrial applications. Due to its high degree of vertical integration ept provides solutions all the way from initial design concepts to high volume production. More than 25 years of experience in developing and manufacturing pressfit components result in a leading position in the field of pressfit and connector technology. Thus ept is a highly versatile and competitive global player.

Please visit